PORO MOVES TO CHICAGO

The Race's Greatest Business Enterprise—Mrs. Malone Tells Why the Change—Praises St. Louis and Our People There — Great Volumes of Business in the "Windy City".

Chicago, Ill.—Mrs. Anna E. Malone, founder and owner of Poro College, has moved its headquarters here and has so notified the famous institution's thousands of agents scattered thruout the country. For some time Mrs. Malone has been quietly acquiring extensive real estate holdings in Chicago and now owns the entire block on S. Parkway, formerly Grand Blvd., between 44th and 45th Sts. The block in former years was occupied by a group of multi-millionaires who built magnificent residences surrouded by expansive and beautiful lawns. These buildings have been remodeled and for the present will house the various departments of the great Poro College business. One structure has for some time been occupied by a Poro College of beauty culture. The block will be known in the future as The Poro Block. Mrs. Malone is said to have plans for a pretentious building program. A few employees have been left in St. Louis to care for the valúable Poro Building there and keep it open to accommodate the public which has become accustomed to its hospitality. A branch office will be maintained there. Mrs. Malone has not as yet decided what disposition to make of the building but is said to prefer that it be used as a sort of community center rather than as an industrial sight. Relative to the change from St. Louis to Chicago, Mrs. Malone said, a few days ago:

"We have felt for sometime that Chicago was the logical place for our main plant. In the first place our volume of business among the 200,000 colored residents of Chicago is larger than at any other single point. Again, we are closer to the sources of supply with consequent savings from a manufacturing and shipping standpoint. Too, Chicago, in my opinion, is the capital of Afro-America. The people here are accomplishing things. The atmosphere is one of commercial striving, endeavor, and promise. St. Louis is a wonderful city. I love my people in St. Louis. I have tried to serve them. But St. Louis in most of its attitudes is a southern city. My experience would lead me to doubt that Negro businesses can grow to lafge magnitude in the South without feeling something of restraint, as well as a certain sense of insecurity. We are hopeful that Chicago will offer us an opportunity for continued growth and development so that we may have the privilege of rendering better service to our fellow women and men."

Swartz, general manager of The Cleveland and Buffalo Transit Company, announces that it will climax the Lake season, this year, with their cruise de luxe. The Great Ship "Seeandbee" will leave Buffalo, Sunday, Sept. 7, for Cleveland; will leave Cleveland, Monday, Sept. 8, for the Detroit river; thence to Lake St. Clair and on up thru Lake Huron, the picturesque St. Marys river, to beautiful Sault St. Marie where the famous "Soo" locks are located. Time will be given passengers here to take in every point of interest. Leaving the "Soo," the great ship will return, down Lake Michigan. Chicago will welcome the tourists on Thursday, fourteen hours being allowed for sightseeing, shopping and entertainment. Beautiful Mackinac Islands will be visited on Friday and three hours spent amidst nature's grandeur. The "Seeandbee" will then start homeward, arriving in Cleveland, Saturday evening, Sept. 13; in Buffalo, Sunday, Sept. 14. The regular C. & B. Line trained corps of courteous attendants will serve the passengers, and every comfort will be afforded. Special entertainment and sightseeing trips are being planned for each day of the cruise. E. church, was largely attended by officials of the Church and friends from various parts of the country. Dr. Penn was one of our leading newspaper men in Georgia, many years ago. He was born in Virginia, Oct. 7, 1867, and has held several high positions in the M. E. Church.

PAYNE DESPERATE IN WARD 11 FIGHT!

Some of His Backers Resorting to Questionable Methods—Court Action.

Mrs. De Anna Davis lost, last week, in her attempt to obtain reinstatement as a candidate for precinct committeewoman in precinct 2 ward 11 when Chief Justice Powell refused to grant her a mandamus writ to compel the board of elections to re-enter her as a candidate. Mrs. Davis, a supporter of Mrs. Lethia C. Fleming, told Justice Powell that Mrs. Idabelle Boyd, widow of "Starlight", had obtained her withdrawal as a candidate through stratagem. In refusing the writ, Justice Powell said the "evidence wasn't clearly substantiated." Mrs. Davis testified that Mrs. Boyd had come to her home, and had told her that she and "Starlight" had always wanted to do something for her, and that she was willing to give her enough money to pay her rent and buy shoes if she would sign a receipt. Mrs. Davis declared that she signed the receipt not knowing that it was a withdrawal. Louis Simon, clerk of the board of elections, testified that Mrs. Davis did not tell him the circumstances when he refused to withdraw her withdrawal. Mrs. Fleming, in a statement to the local press, said Mrs. Idabelle Boyd had called on Mrs. Davis, 2163 E. 38th St., last Thursday night, and had offered Mrs. Davis $75, telling her that she had heard Mrs. Davis was pressed for funds.

"Mrs. Boyd told Mrs. Davis she would give her $45 at once if she signed a receipt," Mrs. Fleming said. "Mrs. Davis signed the paper. It wasn't a receipt at all. It was a letter to the board of elections withdrawing Mrs. Davis' candidacy for precinct committeewoman."

Mrs. Fleming said Payne had had the withdrawal filed with the board of elections the following day. Deputy City Clerk Harvey Atkins, Payne's campaign manager last November, said that he had filed the Davis withdrawal with the board of elections at the request of Payne, but that he knew nothing about it. Payne's version of the story was altogether different.

"Mrs. Boyd told me that she thought that she could get Mrs. Davis out of the race, because she thought that Mrs. Davis was a friend of mine. Mrs. Boyd went to see her and brought back the withdrawal. I know nothing of what happened other than that. I do not know of any money being used to induce her to withdraw. Mrs. Boyd did not ask me for any money, and I didn't give her any," Payne said.

Mrs. Davis confirmed Mrs. Fleming's story, asserting that Mrs. Boyd told her she was a widow and wanted to help another widow out. Mrs. Davis said Mrs. Boyd did not mention Payne's name to her. Mrs. Fleming declared she had the $45 given Mrs. Davis in her possession.

GEORGE B. HARRIS FOR PROSECUTOR

The Cleveland Bar Association by recent vote of its members has endorsed for the office of Prosecuting Attorney of Cuyahoga County:

The duties of the Prosecuting Attorney cover not only the entire field of the administration of the criminal laws within the county but embrace also all matters of a civil nature in which the county and its officials are involved. These duties are often intricate and complex and require legal ability of a high order. Large sums of taxpayer money are involved and the office should be as well organized as that of any large law firm in the city.

The Cleveland Bar Association again asked George B. Harris, Republican, one of the outstanding lawyers of Cleveland to be a candidate. He has opposition for the nomination at the Primary, August 12th.

The referendum vote of the members of The Cleveland Bar Association was conducted and Mr. Harris was endorsed for the office of Prosecuting Attorney. This program was carried on for the purpose of endeavoring to make certain that the Republican party ticket and the party election ballot would bear the name of a candidate for Prosecuting Attorney who would be a lawyer of marked ability and integrity. Mr. Harris is such a man.

Offers $50,000.

Ray Alvis, manager of Young Jack Thompson, world welterweight champion, has under advisement an offer of $50,000 for a match with the welter title at stake against Tommy Freeman to be held in Cleveland before the summer is over. The offer has been made by Tommy McGinty, manager of Freeman, who says he'll hold the bout at League park, the last week in August or first week in September, if Thompson decides to accept the bout. Alvis returned to his home in Chicago, Tuesday morning, after having spent Monday in conference with McGinty.

MARSHMAN IS PREFERRED.

Of Homer H. Marshman, popular and able young lawyer who is making a wonderful campaign for a nomination, as state Senator on the Republican ticket, at the Aug. 12 primaries, the Citizens League says:

Homer H. Marshman: Attorney; resides in Shaker Heights; age 32; public school, university and law school education; never held public office; good personal and professional reputation; would, we believe, make an effective member of the State Senate. Preferred.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 1930.

That "Blossom Triplet" Bundy's resolution to reroute and give better service on the Central Ave. lines, introduced in the City Council, last week, embodies the suggestions made in The Gazette and sent Tractioner Ballou, several weeks ago. It should be adopted without unnecessary delay by that more or less august body. If better service is given with the rerouting, it will be a great blessing to all Central Ave. car-riders, which includes other residents of the city (who use that line on transfers) as well as those of the 11th and 17th wards who live adjacent to the line's route.

Atty. George B. Harris was reared in the Soldiers' Orphans Home at Xenia, O., and is one of the most companionable persons we have ever met. And the editor of The Gazette has known him for about a quarter of a century. Therefore, when Mrs. Hazel Mountain Walker, at Tuesday night's political meeting in the Sunday School room of Mt. Zion Cong. church, said in her speech that Mr. Harris had "high-hatted" her in the past and that she had attributed this "mistreatment" to the fact that Mr. Harris was an orphan, she was guilty of saying something not another person in that room could have been made to say.

TAX THE "Y"?

If it is a fact that Cleveland's Y. M. C. A. refuses Afro-Americans admission as members, why should that institution be exempt from taxation? If it refuses to accept as members our men eligible, then it ceases to be a public institution, but becomes a private or semi-private one. Afro-Americans are tax-payers and help bear the burden of the Y. M. C. A. exemption, something they should not be asked to do as a matter of fairness, to say the least, if the discrimination charge be true. Therefore, if the "Y" is to longer be permitted to escape just taxation, it must open wide its doors of membership to ALL males eligible, without reference to group, class (race) or color. This is a matter which should especially concern the members of our local branch of the N. A. A. C. P. and all other racial organizations that pretend to do anything along the line of conservation of our rights and privileges as citizens.

THE ONLY SOLUTION.

The great harm the dual policy of the American Federation of Labor does in maintaining an open-door policy to the Afro-American in its national organization but allowing its locals to bar him, and endeavor (in vain), at times, to organize separate or "jim-crow" unions for Afro-Americans is glaringly apparent here in Cleveland, just at this time, as a result of our waiters, waitresses and cooks taking the places of strikers (white) in about all of the largest hotels of the city and in many of the others. If anything will, this ought to open the eyes of the leaders of the A. F. of L. to the fact that it must treat the Afro-American citizen worker at least as good as it does its alien and often less intelligent union members by accepting them, too, as members and not in separate unions. This and this only will "solve the problem."

WALKER—BUNDY—WALKER.

Tuesday evening's 17th ward Republican club meeting, held in the assembly room of Mt. Zion Congregational church which holds approximately five or six hundred people, was made a success in point of attendance by the announcement that Mr. Maurice Maschke, head of the local Republican organization, was to be present as the principal speaker, the special guest of the club for that evening. Since that organization, under the misguided leadership of Dr. L. N. Bundy, its president, and a member of the Cleveland City Council principally as a result of the support of Mr. Maschke and the local Republican organization, had endorsed Atty. Arthur H. Day for the Republican nomination for County Prosecutor in the face of the fact that the local Republican leader, Mr. Maschke, was urging the nomination of Atty. Geo. B. Harris, the Republican candidate of the Cleveland Bar association, those who attended the meeting came expecting an exceptionally interesting experience and were not disappointed. The president of the club had arranged the speakers so Mr. Maschke's talk would come between two Day supporters—Mrs. Hazel M. Walker and Rev. D. O. Walker (not related), pastor of one of our local churches. In addition, he had State Senator George H. Bender and Atty. Ben F. Levin, local candidates for office, as helpers, all of whom "made the welkin ring, playing to the gallery" in a vain effort (with the assistance of Wednesday's local daily papers) to make the people of this community believe that many of our people of the third councilmanic district were supporting the Walkers, Bundy, Bender and Levin in their fight on the Republican organization's and the Cleveland Bar association's candidate for County Prosecutor, Atty. Geo. B. Harris. It was a vain effort, however, because Mr. Maschke's clear and forceful statement, without giving offense to anyone, of his reasons and that of the Republican organization for supporting the Harris candidacy appealed so strongly to those in attendance that the ovation given him before he spoke was duplicated at the close of his talk. There is not a scintilla of truth in the insinuations in Wednesday morning's local daily newspapers to the effect that there was any friction or any slight of Mr. Maschke, in any way, upon the part of the audience. The only criticism that could be made would be that applied to a number of silly statements made by the Walkers, Bender, and Levin, all of whom apparently have been misled into believing that the erratic Bundy has the support of our people of this community or any appreciable number of them, something simply impossible under the circumstances. It would be ridiculous, too, in the face of that "Blossom Triplet's" conduct in and out of the City Council ever since the first of the year. The effort of the two Democratic daily newspapers to stir up trouble in the Republican ranks, particularly among our voters of this city, is generally understood, and that of the other daily paper, generally recognized as trying to foist one of its owners on the local Republican organization as its leader, is such that there are few thotful Republicans in this community who do not understand it. It is high time that the political representatives of the local daily newspapers awaken to the fact that few who know Bundy and "Rev." Walker take them seriously.

MASCHKE'S SPEECH WINS THE AUDIENCE!

The 17th Ward Club Revolts Under the Misguided Leadership of Its President—It Will Be "Just Too Bad for Them" After the Primaries.

The Sunday-school room of Mt. Zion Cong. church was filled, Tuesday evening, when the 17th ward club had endorsed Atty. Arthur Day Maurice Maschke as a speaker. The club had endorsed Atty. Arthur Day as its candidate for the Republican nomination for county prosecutor while Mr. Maschke, the local Republican leader, as every one knew was there supporting the candidacy of Atty. George B. Harris for the same nomination. Two years ago their positions as candidates were reversed. There were about 500 persons in the room. Councilman L. N. Bundy presided and the speakers were: Mrs. Hazel M. Walker, Mr. Maschke, Rev. D. O. Walker, State Senator George Bender and Atty. Ben Levin in the order named, President Bundy opening the meeting. Councilmen George and Payne whose clubs endorsed the Harris candidacy, in recent weeks, got to the meeting just before it closed, doubtless for obvious reasons. The less said about the speeches of the two Walkers, Bundy and Bender the better, for most of what they said was bunk, pure and simple. As an illustration, Rev. Walker said among other things:

"Let me tell you whippersnapper politicians I'm tired of letting you fool the people just to keep your little petty jobs. A new day is coming for the Negroes. We can no longer be deluded by puppets tied to city jobs."

He undoubtedly was referring to members of the race holding city jobs which of course includes "The Blossom Triplets" (Councilmen Payne, George and Bundy), City Civil Service Commissioner Harry E. Davis and others in the employ of the city. Mr. Maschke's calm, dispassionate yet forceful talk had preceded that of Walker. He reiterated his statement that his support of Harris was not a matter of likes or dislikes, and said his only concern was in seeing a man nominated who could be elected in November.

"I want you to think seriously on this matter," said Maschke. "I want you to think about November when you can not afford to have a candidate who will be 'shot full of holes' by the Democratic newspapers."

He repeated the assertion he has frequently made that there is grave doubt that Day could beat County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller (Dem.) in the election.

"I love the grand old Republican party," he continued, "and I want to see a Republican down in the Court House. Don't be moved by your sympathies or feelings in figuring out this matter. To have anybody on the ticket who will be pilloried by the Democratic newspapers will weaken the whole Republican ticket."

Bender, in his address, referred to the rumors that Dr. Bundy's people were not with him.

"That's a lie. Look at them," he cried.

"They want to create the impression that Dr. Bundy is living in a den of thieves. My friends, the Majestic Hotel is just as clean as any big hotel in the city."

O, no it isn't a lie, Senator. Somebody has fooled you and fooled you COMPLETELY! "Bundy's people," meaning of course local Afro-Americans, KNOW Bundy; you don't! The great majority of the people at the meeting were, as we have already said, drawn to it by the announcement of Maurice Maschke as one of its speakers and not because they were or are "with" Bundy, "The Blossom Triplet." Bender does not know the Majestic hotel, either, or he would not think of drawing any such notoriously ridiculous comparison. Bender also referred to "some people who have had the audacity to suggest I should not be so friendly with Mr. Bundy."

"But I admire a man who has guts," he said.

Call it "guts" if you want to, Senator, but there are many other persons, far better acquainted with Bundy than you are, that have another and better name for IT.

The Cleveland Daily Press is quite right when it says: "Observers saw in the Bundy organization's defection little to justify the belief that Day's cause was materially aided, and pointed out that the attack on Maschke more than likely would solidify groups which have been wavering behind the Republican chieftain."

One outcome of the meeting already is the opening of The Third District George B. Harris for County Prosecutor headquarters, the finest in that section of the city for many, many years. W. W. Williams in charge, assisted by Clarence B. Shaw. Several meetings are being arranged for next week, they announce.

WILLIAM T. SPENCE

A Strong Candidate for a Republican Nomination as State Representative — His Platform—Broadminded and Fair to All—Vote for Him.

Standing squarely upon this motto, "Actions speak louder than words," Wm. T. Spence of the W. T. Spence Realty Co., headquarters, 11502 St. Clair Ave., City, seeks a nomination for State Representative on the Republican ticket, at the primary election, Aug. 12, 1930. For sixteen years, Mr. Spence has been a real-estate broker in Cleveland.

Mr. William T. Spence.

During this time, he has earned an enviable reputation for honesty and square-dealing, which, together with his wide experience in business, fits him admirably for the position he is seeking.

If there is one thing more than another that is needed in both branches of Ohio State Assembly, it is a membership composed largely of business men. Mr. Spence was born in England, Nov. 6, 1875, and educated in public schools. He was a professional cricketer and coach for fourteen years in army, colleges, etc., and naturally is exceptionally fit, physically.

In his platform, he announces that he stands for the old-age pension with the stigma of charity removed; for modification of the 18th Amendment under government control, and for the stoppage of the wicked wasting of the people's money and people's lives, under the false guise of prohibition. He urges penal reform and a lowering of taxes in Cuyahoga county and the state of Ohio; believes in legalizing horse-racing and in placing it under state control, and in encouraging industries to locate in Ohio rather than to leave the state because of excessive taxation.

Broadminded and progressive, Mr. Spence harbors no prejudices, but believes in trying to help all deserving fellow-men without reference to class, race or color. Therefore, no mistake will be made by nominating him as a candidate for State Representative on the Republican ticket. As a matter of fact, a vote for Mr. Spence means a vote for progress. So remember him when you go to the polls, Tuesday, Aug. 12, 1930.

The program included exceptionally fine readings by Mrs. Dazalia Wade, Miss Clara Chesnutt and Mrs. Price, a fine piano solo by Miss Marian Chesnutt, and beautiful vocal solos by the Misses Berry, Lydia Martin, Marvel Hudson, Mrs. Cleota C. Lacy and Mrs. R. D. Lynch of Youngstown whose smooth, melodious and well-balanced soprano voice proved most pleasing indeed, as also did that of Mrs. Lacy. JACKSON SEEKS RE-NOMINATION ON HIS RECORD!

Hon. Perry B. Jackson, our member of the state legislature from this county and the only Afro-American in the Ohio Assembly, formally announces his candidacy for re-nomination, subject to the Republican primaries, Tuesday, Aug. 12. In a statement, Tuesday, to a representative of "The Old Reliable" Gazette Jackson said:

"Two years ago the people had to take me on faith. They elected me and I realized that a tremendous responsibility to "make good" rested upon my shoulders. I believe that I have done so. I read every bill presented for consideration. As a result I was able to block several efforts to enact and repeal legislation which would have resulted in discrimination against our people."

Among Jackson's accomplishments are:

1. Blocking the effort to repeal the statute making "inciting to riot and mob violence", criminal offenses. This statute is a protection to minority groups.

2. Blocking the attempt to require fraternal organizations to register their name and insignia which would have injured our Masons, Elks, K. of P. and Odd Fellows because they would have been barred, in this state, if white Masons, and others, registered first.

3. Striking out the words "race or color" from the new election code.

4. Fought discrimination at Ohio University, Athens, O. In addition to the foregoing Mr. Jackson introduced several bills which were enacted into law and supported all measures of interest to and for the advancement of all the people of this county and state.

We must all vote for Perry!

21 Deny Guilt!

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Pleas of not guilty were entered by 21 Beckham county residents (white) including three "peace" officers, when they were arraigned before the U. S. Commissioner on charges of having forced "Negroes", living near Erick, to flee their homes, recently, in southwestern Oklahoma following threatened mob violence. Deputy Sheriffs M. Y. Baker and Jeff Davis, and C. T. Calvert, Erick city constable, were the officers.

VOTE FOR JERRY ZMUNT.

One of the Very Best Commissioners Cuyahoga County Has Ever Had—Our Friend.

County Commissioners Jerry R. Zmunt and Walter E. Cook killed the proposed annexation of a portion of Miles Heights village to Cleveland, Wednesday, after a hearing at which more than 200 residents of the village, headed by Mayor Arthur R. Johnston, protested the annexation on the ground that more than $500,000 had been spent in civic improvement. The residents of Miles Heights, who filled the commissioners' meeting-room and the hall, cheered wildly as Jerry Zmunt and Walter Cook voted against the annexation and Jack Harris, for it. It is believed that Hein in his petition to annex a portion of the village to Cleveland was attempting to segregate the residents by annexing the so-called "white section" and leaving the remainder un-annexed. The commissioners opposed the same on the ground that they would be favorable to the annexation of the entire village of Miles Heights but not a portion of it. We cannot commend Commissioner Zmunt too highly on his stand in this fight, and wish to remind our people of the county that he is up for re-election. Our people won't forget Walter E. Cook, either.

None Better.

No county commissioner in any county has functioned more ably than Jerry R. Zmunt, who first won the confidence and vote of the people of this county for that office in 1921. Three times, they have returned him to office and each time he has kept faith with the people by standing firm as a rock for the things that are right. Last week, when "whites" of Miles Heights village were attempting to annex their section of the village to the city, leaving out the "black" section, Mr. Zmunt saw what the proposed annexation of a part of Miles Heights village would do to our people, got busy and secured the vote of his colleague, Walter E. Cook, to put an end to it. Mr. Zmunt made it plain that he was not for the annexation of any village, except when it was on the level and wanted to come in as a whole. The office of county commissioner requires a man who is fair, square and just, one who will stand eternally for right. We firmly believe that Jerry R. Zmunt is that sort of man as his record shows and proves. Therefore, The Gazette earnestly asks the vote of every Afro-American in Cuyahoga County for Jerry.

RE-ELECT ACKERMAN

To the State Senate—A Conscientious Representative With a Splendid Record—Our Friend.

State Senator Joseph N. Ackerman is seeking re-election on his excellent record for two terms. It speaks for itself. Mr. Ackerman works for the interests of all, particularly those of this, Cuyahoga county which includes of course all of our people living in this senatorial district. It was Mr. Ackerman who, as vice-chairman of the finance committee, secured an appropriation for the State Department of Wilberforce University $178,000 larger than any appropriation ever given it. This shows he has the interests of "Wilberforce" at heart. He has sent eighteen of our young men and women of Cleveland to study there, free of tuition and other expenses. Mr. Ackerman has fought fearlessly all Ku Klux Klan legislation, including the bible bill.

"An inspection of Mr. Ackerman's excellent record, during the past two terms in office, forces one conclusion: namely, that in view of the good work already done by the senator, and other work now in progress, his re-election to office is a public necessity at this time."—Garfield Heights Record.

The Gazette urges our voters to be sure to remember Senator Ackerman when they go to the polls, Tuesday, Aug. 12.

Attorney George B. Harris, who has been a prominent figure in County and State politics for many years, has been drafted by the Cleveland Bar Association to make the fight for the Republican nomination for County Prosecutor this year. He is conducting an aggressive campaign for this important office.

Additional Local

Atty. Maurice Grant, capable young barrister, is making an aggressive fight for a nomination as state representative, on the Republican ticket, basing his plea on the need of revising and "humanizing" the workmen's compensation law of Ohio. Mr. Grant has helped many of our citizens to get justice from the state board, and is not only thoroly competent but deserving. Remember him when you go to vote, Aug. 12, '30.

Our oldest county commissioner in point of service is Jerry Zmunt, from boyhood a friend of the editor of The Gazette. He is, too, one of the very best commissioners Cuyahoga county has ever had, and always a true and tried friend of the race. We want to ask all of our readers to do their DUTY on August 12, 1930, in his case. Vote for him, and induce all of your friends and acquaintances, voters, to do likewise that you can. Jerry Zmunt merits this support.

Langston Hughes has done pretty nearly everything you can find in a book of adventure since he was graduated from Cleveland's Central High school as class poet and year book editor. Now he has written the soundest "Negro" novel that has been produced by any of the swarm of "Negro" novelists that have been active since the war. That makes it the soundest "Negro" book by anyone, black or white, since Cleveland's Charles W. Chesnutt did "The Conjure Woman," 31 years ago. Hughes' novel is "Not Without Laughter" (Knopf, $2.50).—Cleveland Daily Press.

Leroy D. Fowler, former federal prohibition agent and veteran of the Spanish American and World Wars, Wednesday, in Federal Judge Samuel H. West's court, pleaded guilty to a charge of mishandling government funds intrusted to him. He was given a year and a day in Atlanta Penitentiary. Fowler, in 1927, was appointed guardian of Ira, jr., and Constance Abney, 12 and 9, children of Ira Abney, deceased World War veteran. Without permission of the Cuyahoga County Probate Court he invested $7,300 war risk insurance in a Chicago garment factory and lost it all. Fowler, wife and two children, lived at 2289 E. 81st St. He had been a prisoner in County Jail since April 21, awaiting trial, having previously pleaded not guilty to the charge.

A. Ellsworth Gamblee is director of boys' playground activities at the Woodland Center; Marguerite Pennybacker, Essie Hague, and Mrs. Agnes Howell are class-directors for both boys' and girls' groups. A large number attended the closing exercises of the Center vacation church-school held, July 25. There was demonstration of the regular daily program and an exhibition of children's handwork which was later placed on exhibition in the vacation church-school display at Taylor Arcade. Rev. Frank T. Barry of Woodland Hills Union church is a director of the Center and during vacation-school was assisted by Miss Hague, Helene Clintborne, Miss Pennybacker, Mrs. Howell, Helen Baldwin, a teacher in the local public schools, Grace Harman and Mr. Gamblee.

TWO MOBOCRATS TO DIE!

Georgia High Court Upholds Sentence in Murders.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Georgia supreme court has decided that two young white brutes—brothers—must die because they killed two aged Afro-Americans. The court, Saturday, upheld conviction and death sentence of Harvey Bradberry, Oconee county youth, for the murder of "Doc" Elder and his wife. Last Monday, it affirmed the conviction and sentence of his brother, Wayman. Raymond Cooper, another white youth, who was tried with the Bradberry brothers, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Evidence was that the three men lured the aged man from his cabin and beat and stabbed him to death, last year. They then returned to his home and cut his wife's throat as she slept, according to Wayman's confession. The cabin was ransacked and savings of the couple was stolen.

HEAR! HEAR!!

The ROUNDER

WHAT'S DOING!

Atty. Selmo C. Glenn's affidavit of prejudice, last week, asked that the Hotel Majestic cases in which he was to figure be transferred from Police Judge Mary B. Grossman's muny court to some other. Chief Justice Dempsey of the Municipal court who heard Glenn's plea turned him down flat, owing to "a lack of evidence," he said. Selmo opposed Judge Grossman's re-election, last fall, and according to reports of indications of prejudice in her court on different occasions, may have been justified in making his affidavit.

Current rumor has it that "The Blossom Triplets," particularly Bundy and Payne, encouraged Rev. D. O. Walker to write his letter of alleged "protest" against the location in the 12th ward of the new swimming pool and recreational center which Councilman Herman Finkle has worked so long and hard for. The letter was sent to City Manager Daniel E. Morgan, the City Council, Finkle and "The Blossom Triplets" (Councilmen George, Payne and Bundy). Walker has been in Cleveland only a few years, comparatively speaking, and like Bundy, is what the Germans call "a bobblegush." The only difference between the two is that Walker is a native West Indian. Little attention should be paid to most everything both of them say or write. For several years, Councilman Finkle has been struggling to get a playground for his bailiwick, the 12th ward. Now that he has succeeded, and it has been so placed as to make it convenient for residents of the 11th and 17th wards to use it as well as the 12th ward, "The Blossom Triplets" are trying to "stir up something," trying to turn people in the third councilmanic district against Finkle, instead of getting busy in an effort to get a playground for their own wards, especially Payne and Bundy of the 11th and 17th wards, respectively. It is what some people refer to as "dog in the manger" business —their Walker "protest" and foolish comment. City Manager Morgan took the right stand when he turned down the Walker—George—Payne —Bundy "protest" and called attention to the fact that Parks Director Sam Newman selected the $800,000 swimming pool and recreational center site; that the school board had approved the location, and about everybody else, except Walker and "The Blossom Triplets." Three cheers for Councilman Herman Finkle!!!

What became of that clerkship in the civil service commission headquarters "The Blossom Triplets" said had been promised them, along with the two other clerkships received, for "waiving" their opposition to the re-appointment of "Color-line City Hospital" Dud Blossom? What became of George's, Payne's and Bundy's promise to get better service on the Central Ave. street-car line? Wind, wind, WIND! Like their talk, in the 11th ward club meeting, last week Friday evening, in the P. W. annex, of being a "triumvirate." Fine bunch of alleged politicians, they. Several weeks ago, Bundy announced that the three of them were opposed to Geo. B. Harris for county prosecutor, and that they were for Arthur Day. The following week, George proceeded to make "monkey-food" of Bundy's loudly proclaimed statement by declaring for Harris. Last week, Larry Payne gave Bundy another pain by hurdling to Harris, too, leaving the "bobblegush" very much alone in his support of Day, and "busting" that alleged "triumvirate" to a tearful frazzle. Lord have mercy!

No one takes seriously Rev. D. O. Walker, the "windy" political pastor of St. James A. M. E. church. Last fall, he was just as noisily proclaiming his support of the Progressive Government committee and in opposition to "The Blossom Triplets" (George, Payne and Bundy) with whom he has now linked up in an effort to play in their back-yard and get a little cheap local political publicity. The members of St. James church are doubtless very proud (?) of his latest silly exhibition at Mt. Zion church, Tuseday evening. The very idea of such men as Walker and Bundy, both thoroly politically discredited and most unreliable, blowing about affording our people of this community "new leadership!" It is enough to make a wooden Indian laugh. Just how far could our people trust politically, either of them? "W. W.", better known as "Billy" Williams, told "The Rounder," Wednesday morning, that Bundy had told him that Mr. Hanna had given him $1000. Wonder if that has anything to do with Bundy's "Day" activity and whether this gift is any indication of the reason why The Cleveland Daily News is pursuing a political course diametrically opposed to the Republican organization and its leader, Mr. Maurice Maschke? Does Hanna want to be the Republican "boss?" "The Rounder" has heard so and in recent weeks, too.

MOST TORNADOES NOT DANGEROUS

Motorist Should Drive Car North or South.

In spite of their ferocity, tornadoes offer little peril to motor tourists if four general rules are kept in mind and obeyed when a twister is sighted, points out the touring bureau of the Chicago Motor club.

"Inasmuch as nearly all tornadoes move in generally easterly direction, the car should be driven north or south, out of its path," the bureau stated in a bulletin. "One should be careful, however, not to drive into a second one.

Get Into Cyclone Cellar.

"If the car is disabled, get into a cyclone cellar, if one is near. Failing in both of those plans, take refuge in the cellar of a frame house, on the side nearest the storm. Should the house topple, the debris will be blown away from you. If there is no other recourse than to face the storm in the open, lie flat on the ground, or preferably in a ditch some distance from trees or poles. Shield your head with seat cushions."

Tornadoes are, the bureau explained, traveling whirlwinds. Their destructive area at any one moment is not greater, on the average, than two or three square city blocks. While the rate of whirl at its axis may be three or four hundred miles per hour, it seldom travels across the country faster than sixty miles per hour.

Tornadoes Move Northeast.

Most tornadoes move toward the northeast, while a few travel toward the southeast. The chances are about fifty to one that the direction in which it is seen to be moving is the one which, with but slight variations, it will pursue until it dies out.

Controlled Lights Are Favored for All Storms

Controlled lighting offers the most satisfactory solution of the difficulties of driving through fog or snow and rainstorms.

Fog generally hangs just above the ground and lighting equipment which can be adjusted to get underneath the fog for a short distance ahead of the car so that the driver may see the edge of the road is the most desirable. A road light, attached below the front bumper, is effective. Dimming equipment which tilts the beams of the headlights downward have an advantage over some other types of dimmers.

Controllable spotlights or searchlights which can be trained on the edge of the roadway are desirable equipment for driving under these conditions. Fog continues to be hazardous and calls for unusual caution on the part of the motorist, just as it continues to trouble the airplane pilot and the sailor.

In the same way controllable lighting equipment is best for driving in heavy snow and rain, from the standpoint of path illumination.

In inclement weather accidents are fewer in proportion to the hazards involved than they are on bright, clear, and dry nights, because drivers naturally use extreme caution.

Small Gas Engine Most Versatile Farm Worker

Some one has said that the small gas engine will do practically anything a hired man can do except take the hired girl to town on Saturday night. In fact, a gas engine is one of the most versatile choreboys on the farm.

At least 20 or 25 farm jobs can be done with gas engine power, for only a few cents per hour of work. A gas engine will eliminate the drudgery of operating a washing machine by hand. It will pump the water, drive the water system or operate the farm light plant. Other common jobs are grinding feed, sawing wood, operating the grain elevator, running the grindstone, mixing concrete and many more.

THE MOTOR QUIZ

How Many Can You Answer?

Q. How often is the oil circulated through the engine's oiling system at average driving speed?

Ans. From 100 to 150 times an hour.

Q. How is spark plug preignition revealed?

Ans. The engine loses power and the driver often thinks he is running out of gas; a pinging noise is sometimes heard; missing at continuous high speed.

Q. What factors are necessary for perfect carburetor performance?

Ans. Proper carburetor adjustment, good compression and ignition.

Repairing Poor Idling of Motor Car Engine

The effective opening past the butterfly valve, to allow the motor to idle at a slow speed, is surprisingly small. After the car has been in use for several years, the shaft on which the butterfly is mounted and its bearings become worn. The result is that the butterfly never closes to the same position twice running; in addition, a considerable amount of air leaks through around the shaft bearings. A simple way to cure this trouble is to remove the adjusting screw entirely so that the butterfly closes tight. File a small notch in the edge of the butterfly valve as shown. The notch should be filed in the side of the butterfly valve on which the low speed nozzle is located and the size of the notch will govern the idling speed.—Popular Science Monthly.

With adjusting screw removed, file a notch in the butterfly valve to govern the idling speed of the motor, when the bearings admit air.

FILMY NET AND FLOWERY CHIFFON RESPOND TO CALL FOR SHEER WEAVES

IT'S the sheerness of weaves which counts for chic and for that which is most feminine and lovely this summer. Seeing which airy fairy chiffons and filmy meshed nets become friendly rivals in the present-day fabric realm. Choosing either or both, women of fashion may be happily confident of smartly answering the call of the midsummer mode.

Two models which eloquently interpret outstanding trends are shown here. The dress with a scarf, to the left in the picture, achieves a rather unique color effect, in that it combines beige, brown and red net in a strikingly handsome manner. The top of this gown is of beige net with full-gathered skirt of brown, the uneven hemline of which is outlined with bands of beige and red net. A scarf of the brown net ties around the throat.

Many chapters could be written about net as seen through fashion's eye. In the first place every sort of net functions with honors on the summer style program, from cotton to silk, from fine mesh to coarse, from printed to plain.

A smart note is being sounded in the employment of net for evening and dressy afternoon wear in rich dark street colors such as navy or pirate blue, forest green, spanish red and an entire range of browns. Make white or cream net up with brown net and you have one of the smartest combinations of the season. So far as the black net gown is concerned, it belongs in every fashionable wardrobe.

In the lighter effects printed nets are competing with white or pastel monotones also challenging the supremacy of dotted nets. Not only are nets of this character popular for frocks but the newest blouses are of every sort of net much befrilled and intriguingly lace trimmed.

As to flowered chiffons it would seem that everything that could be said in their behalf has been given voice, and yet because of its unique fashioning the beautiful Paris-made dress illustrated to the right enlivens the story with new and refreshing interest. The trailing skirt, so full as to be quaint, and the soft neck movement are delightfully unusual as well as exquisitely feminine.

YOU'LL LOVE A DAINTY BLOUSE OF EYELET EMBROIDERED BATISTE

INTEREST in embroidered materials has been running high among women who have enjoyed the return of that something called the "feminine" to the mode. There is something very dainty, crisp and winsome about an eyelet embroidered blouse. A month or two ago when we first began seeing them in the smartest shops, they looked a bit quaint, and grandmotherly; but lo! and behold they're now simply adorable, and once more accepted as being very modern and not at all quaint—though our grandmothers did wear them!

The great majority of these embroided materials with which the fashion market is well stocked are embroidered in America with American yarns—usually durenized cotton, which is simply another way of saying, by means of a general word, quality-mercerized cotton.

Illustrated are two of the most adorable blouses we've seen. One is long sleeved with frill cuffs, and Byronesque, ruffly collar developed in daisy eyelets embroidered in pale peach durene. The background material is batiste. The other, short sleeved blouse, has a ten-pointed star collar and star-point cuffs cut flat without ruffling. The background material is baby blue voile embroidered also by American experts in suavely lustrous durene in an irregular all-over eyelet motif.

Not the least of the charm of the new eyelet-embroidered blouse is its exquisite coloring. With the skirt and jacket (often a bolero) suit of black crepe, it is the fashion to wear an eyelet-patterned blouse either in pale pink or pale blue. Of course any of the pastel tints are in vogue for these sheer tuck-ins but the two colors mentioned are "Frenchy," imparting an air of having come from across seas to any black or navy costume with which they are worn.

Note in the case of the blouse on the standing figure that the frilly collar is worn over the bolerolike jacket. Most of the summer blouses are made just that way.

It is possible to buy pocketbooks, hats and even shoes made of eyelet embroidered effects.

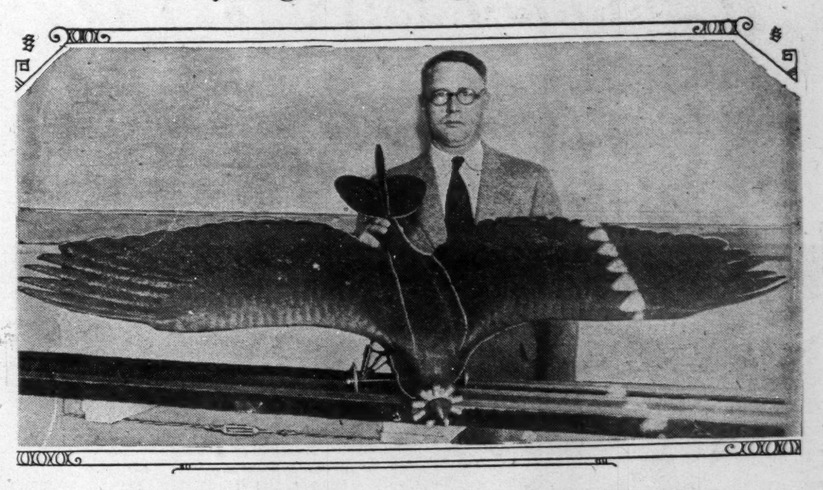
Secret of Eagle's Soaring Believed Solved!



AVERY SHOWS MODEL OF AFRO-AMERICAN'S NEW TYPE AIRCRAFT.

Revolutionary changes in plane construction expected as result of latest development in wings for flying craft, patterned after those of birds that remain in air apparently without effort.

PLANE TO HAVE BIRD-LIKE WING

Construction Started on New Discovery—Tryout With Pilot Planned—Model Used in Tests Rides Against Strong Wind.

(From Los Angeles Times, July 6.)

One man, at least, is certain that at last he has wrested from soaring birds their secret of effortless flight. Moreover, he has convinced a large group of engineers, aviation experts and hard-headed business men of it. Construction started here yesterday on an all-metal airplane wing that will embody the intricate aerodynamical system that nature gave to the eagle, vulture and albatross—a system that requires no wing flapping or artificial power plant to sustain flight.

The new wing is not an invention—merely, according to the discoverer, the discovery of the birds' secret and perfection of the way it can be harnessed to man's advantage. It is to be ready within two months for actual flight on a scale large enough to carry a pilot. The Vortex Wing Company, backers of the discovery and headed by men who long have been identified with aviation or in other fields of contributory sciences, makes the announcement to this effect.

MODEL DEMONSTRATED.

The demonstration of a model, weighing sixteen and one-half pounds, with a wing spread of sixty inches, shooting forward into a thirty-mile wind created by propellers, apparently convinced the engineers present that J. H. Montgomery, Los Angeles Afro-American engineer, graduate of the Colorado School of Mines, has mastered soaring flight. Montgomery's conviction that a rigid vulture-type wing made for aircraft would be superior to the present plane by tripling its lifting power, cutting motor horsepower in half, increasing the pay load 150 per cent, cutting landing speed 60 per cent, reducing take-off distance 90 per cent, and reducing fuel consumption and dead weight, brought about formation of the local company a year ago.

COMPANY OFFICERS.

Ben S. Hunter, former vice-president and general manager of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, heads the new company as president. G. Ray Boggs, formerly with Lockheed, and now president of Nevada Air Lines, is vice-president. Wayland Avery is secretary-treasurer. They placed on an advisory board aero-dynamic engineers, physicists and ornithologists, who for the last year have checked every detail of Montgomery's discovery. If the latter proves as successful as the practical model it is expected to revolutionize airplane construction and make flying foolproof. The wing under construction will be tested either on a Lockheed fuselage or a smaller one made especially for it. Full protection of its design has been insured in patents, made in a 12,000-word application, said to be the longest on record.

VIEWED BY THOUSANDS.

More than 8,000 persons, most of them engineers, have seen the model perform—actually pick up speed as it heads into the artificial blast. Montgomery first demonstrated his idea with a dead vulture, preserved by him in rigid flying position through a process he developed during eighteen years of experiment. An ordinary airplane model, placed before the wind current, is blown backward, but it is believed that a plant equipped with the bird-type wing and a motor of only power enough to gain altitude, will be able to fly into the wind through power, the discoverer has found created in a soaring bird's wing. The feathered principle will be reproduced in the airplane wing by stamping in the metal in exact proportion the details of a vulture's wing. A standard set of airplane controls will be placed in the first ship, with only the addition of a panel on the forward edge of the wing that will be turned up in landing to break the flow of air across the wing and stop the wing's forward thrusting action.

RESULTS OF OBSERVATION.

Montgomery started his experiments while connected with the Guggenheim mining interests in Colorado. He became convinced, through observing eagles and vultures soaring all day long without moving a wing, that their soaring power lay in their wing construction. He has killed nearly 20,000 birds since then, examining them and compiling scientific facts, completing his final experiments by sending preserved dead birds aloft on small balloons that would burst and allow the rigid birds to soar. One dead bird soared twelve miles from 1,500 feet. From his years of inquiry he has found that the wing of a vulture as a whole is an airfoil—a lifting surface—but that it is an airfoil in three directions, from the shoulder to the tip in length; from the shoulder to the tip in a twist on a 45 deg. angle, and in cross-section; that each of the twenty-three feathers is an airfoil, and that each feather is made up of three airfoils, or feathers within feathers.

PRINCIPLE EXPLAINED.

He found that the air, striking the wing, starts spiraling, creating minute vacuums (vortices or miniature tornadoes) and going down through the wing from blade to blade, produces tiny vacuums, finally being whirled off the rear of the wing, as well as toward the wing tip and the body. The effect of any vacuum produced in front of an object is to pull the object forward and accordingly, Montgomery found that the combined effect of the tiny vacuums is a forward thrust and the explanation of how such a winged body can create its own forward power within the wing itself. He spent $30,000 on his secret experiments, conducted in the United States, South America and Alaska.

COPLAND STORM CENTER IN LEGISLATIVE FIGHT

The battle for ballots in the coming August primaries seems to be waxing warmer as days go on. Outside of the Day-Harris fight for the prosecutorship, the greatest interest is being displayed in the fight for nomination to the State Senate. In former years, no great amount of interest has been aroused in the legislative ticket. The Citizens Committee, a group of influential bankers and business men affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce, has always selected the candidates it desired nominated and Mr. Maschke, the Republican chief, has endorsed them. This slate always won the nomination at the primaries. This year, however, there is much consternation in the camps of the Citizens Committee—and all because of the candidacy of David Copland for State Senator. It is conceded that the Citizens Committee never could have put over their slate, despite the tremendous sums of money spent by them on behalf of their favored candidates, without the help of the Republican organization. This year, however, things are different. A cloud appears upon the horizon—and that cloud is in the personage of David Copland. Side-tracked by the Citizens Committee, his friends took up the battle and today, he is without a doubt the most formidable candidate for the State Senate. He is perhaps one of the most interesting characters among the candidates for this office. Smiling, affable, and modest, yet when aroused, a two-fisted fighter, loyal to his friends and his party, he has endeared himself to the hearts of thousands. The rank and file of the Republican organization, including all of the ward leaders know him well and intimately. It is doubtful if even such a strongly financed group as the Citizens Committee can tear Copland out of the hearts of the organization. Here is a political triangle—and in the meantime Copland and his friends are fighting on, with victory as their goal. If they succeed—and at this time, it looks very much as if they will, the Citizens Committee slate will be broken for the first time, and out of it, should emerge one of the greatest political factors in Cuyahoga County in many a year—David Copland.
